

I've brought a spare fleece

Pictures: INCOGNITO MEDIA

SKIER Pete Oswald battles down a mountain with a sheep in his arms — after spotting it injured and unable to walk.

Pete, 29, found it with its head bent under its body on Hector Mountain, New Zealand. He said: “It was exhausted and wouldn’t have survived. It was hard to ski with wool in my face.” It was clearly no baaar to a safe descent.

